- Classic spoked wheels with light alloy rims
- Powerful 320mm fully floating front disc brake

Inspired by the Bonneville-based café racers of the 1960s and named after the Hampshire race track where Triumph enjoyed so much success, the Thruxton is Triumph's sportiest classic and a machine for the real connoisseur.

With its low slung handlebars, alloy-rimmed wire wheels and central racing stripe, the Thruxton looks ready to roll onto the grid at a classic motorcycle race.

Thumb the starter and enjoy the satisfying growl that only a British parallel-twin can provide. Make no mistake, motorcycles are designed to evoke emotions. And no motorcycle creates a bigger emotion than the Triumph Thruxton.

The Bonneville's 865cc eight-valve DOHC parallel-twin has been tuned for performance in the Thruxton and delivers 68bhp thanks to its revised camshaft profile and high-compression pistons.

Handling is composed and precise, too, with 41mm forks and chromed twin shock absorbers adjustable for preload, all delivering a tailored, sporting ride to match the looks. A fully floating 320mm front disc brake equips the Thruxton with far more stopping power and assurance than the 1960s bikes it pays homage to.

As one would expect from the flagship to Triumph's classic line, the Thruxton is dripping with neat touches and quality components. Bar end mirrors complement the minimalist lines, while lightweight alloy rims, bar-mounted instruments, sporty graphics and racy megaphone exhaust ensure the Thruxton remains faithful to the café racers of the period.

A range of genuine Triumph accessories are available for the Thruxton to further increase its sporting prowess. These include an aerodynamic bikini fairing and, for those wishing to take to the race track, a beautifully crafted race exhaust from Arrow Special Parts which increases the performance and sound from the parallel-twin engine.

Two premium color options are available for the Thruxton: Diablo Red with a white race stripe or Phantom Black with a classic gold stripe.
